

Worst of Reds

From the Los Angeles Times.

Edward de Valera, fugitive president of the mythical "Irish republic," received from Los Angeles on Wednesday a frigid greeting. The mayor absented himself from the city hall when De Valera called; the doors of the Shrine Auditorium, where he was to speak, were locked to him; hundreds of persons in the crowded shopping district turned their backs while the automobile in which he was riding passed. For once the cordial hospitality for which Los Angeles is famed was nowhere in evidence.

De Valera comes here posing as the president of a "government" without existence. He comes seeking to promote the sale of bonds of the "Irish republic" whose security is only a myth. He represents, not the Irish people, but the Sinn Feiners, who are the I. W. W. of Ireland. He is an alien Red, the most conspicuous one in America, and he should be deported, along with the other Reds who are now locked up in federal prisons awaiting deportation. His offense is the greater because he acts with full understanding. Born in this country, De Valera is an expatriated American; he is attempting to foment revolution against the government to which he pledged allegiance when he renounced his Americanism. He is banned from presenting any cause before the American people because, by reason of the Sinn Fein pro-German activities against America, seeking the murder of our soldiers and sailors during the great war, he cannot come before the bar of public opinion with clean hands. Admiral Sims has bared that record. It is self-explanatory.

Thank heaven, there is one free city in America where an enemy of orderly government is not welcomed.

In barring the doors of its auditorium to him the members of the Shrine organization of Los Angeles were actuated by loyal and patriotic motives. The reason assigned is amply sufficient. Permission to use the hall had been granted in ignorance of the real purpose of the meeting, which we are not advised is for the appearance of Ramon (Edward) de Valera to exploit a certain doctrine which the association believes is not consistent with the principles of Americanism.

Why this rebuff? The answer is written in the report of Admiral Sims on the pro-German activities of the Sinn Fein organization, of which De Valera is, and was at that time, the head, during the crucial months when America was rushing its Liberty Army to the rescue of the free people of Europe. The Sinn Feiners plotted with the Huns to massacre, through undersea attacks, American troops on their way to the front.

Further explanation is unnecessary. The record stands as written by the Sinn Feiners themselves. They were traitors to the cause of world freedom, traitors to the government of which they were themselves a part, traitors to their own blood in Ireland and America. De Valera tried lamely to deny in Los Angeles that he was a British citizen; yet within a year he stood for election to the British parliament, where the first qualification of every candidate is that he must be a citizen of Great Britain.

Los Angeles looks upon De Valera as an unwelcome guest. Our hospitality does not extend to alien Reds. The atmosphere is polluted by his presence and the sooner he shakes the dust of Southern California from the soles of his shoes the better.

Inasmuch as a priest has written a book in which he declares his belief that Pope Pius X was poisoned, a New York woman who is a papist is quoted by the New York Evening Telegram as demanding that the pope's remains should be exhumed and examined to prove or disprove the assertion. The priest's book seems to have stirred up the "faithful" who have had more than one occasion to consider the use of chemistry in vatican politics.

Many Protestants have yet to learn that Protestantism cannot flourish as it should until its protest against popery becomes vigorous enough to attract attention.

To Advertise Rome

A. J. Benjamin in Wisconsin Christian Advocate.

Cardinal Mercier of Belgium is visiting the United States and we should all be glad to see him and to do him honor if he came to us as a Belgian, for the history of the war has greatly exalted this nation in our esteem. We also admired the cardinal's course and commended him for his bravery at the time of the invasion of Belgium, but after reading his recent apology for the pope's treachery and duplicity in not condemning the outrages of German Roman Catholics in Belgium during the war, we can not do otherwise than to pity him. We feel sorry for him, as we do for all the poor deluded followers of Benedict XV, the world over. Poor Mercier! A good man at heart, undoubtedly, but after all a poor cringing vassal to a coldblooded political tyrant, whose only thought during the entire war, was, how he might profit by the results of this war and derive some prestige for himself irrespective of the slaying of little helpless children and the ravishing of pure and gentle mothers and daughters of his own faith.

And what is Cardinal Mercier's explanation? Briefly this: that the pope did not dare to assume the responsibility for the immense upsetting of consciences, which would have resulted if he had told German Catholics that their war was wicked and they must stop it.

RATS!! And this is to justify the action of the pope in allowing these German Catholic butchers to continue their outrages! Is this not a spectacle to make the angels weep!

Is it not pitiful in the extreme to contemplate what this intolerant and tyrannical Roman Catholic system does to a great kindhearted man—how it makes him say things that down deep in his heart he knows to be a lie.

And if the system does this for educated and well meaning men in the upper strata what must it not do to the millions of poor ignorant and ten-thousand fold more deluded subjects who constitute the rank and file of this aggregation?

Let no one be deceived. We know why and how Mercier comes to this country at this time. He does not come as a citizen of Belgium at all. He comes as a Roman Catholic priest, to exploit the hierarchy and to make excuses for the miserable coward on the Tiber who would not say a word or lift a hand when his own spiritual kindred were passing through the tortures of hell and all Belgium was a veritable slaughterhouse.

And now the daily papers are filled with nauseating accounts of masses—high and low—masses here and masses yonder by the great Cardinal Mercier of Belgium—for what purpose? To advertise Rome and nothing else.

Oh the perfidy and the deceitfulness of it all! Why does he come? Only so that he may cover up the heartlessness and the brutal neutrality of the old pope. This is why. Poor Mercier! Does he not know that it is impossible to fool all the American people all the time and that there is plenty of "humbuggery" in the United States and absolutely no need of importing any of it from Italy!

Does Mexico Believe

Jenkins is a Papist

Somebody asks, "Which is your best book on Mexico?" This question is prompted by curiosity to know what special influences are most interested in the Jenkins trouble in Mexico now! This agent of the U. S. government was charged by Mexico with conspiring for his own abduction in order to show that Mexico could not protect Americans even in well populated centers. What great ecclesiastical power would do such a trick as that? Jenkins would not be guilty of such a trick unless he were helping the papal church in its dirty work in Mexico and the U. S. which is hardly probable. BUT read the history of Mexico from Cortez to Carranza and come to your own conclusion. We have it in book form. Ask for High Lights of the Mexican Revolution. Paper bound 50 cents, cloth $1.25, postage prepaid to your door. THE MENACE.

Saint Martin's Lost Ass

Possibly you never heard of him for the beast was lost some 'steens centuries ago; but the devout creature has just found himself in the editorial chair of The Washington (D. C.) Times. He is variously known as W. R. Hearst's fifty-thousand-dollar editor, or as Arthur Brisbane editor and owner of the aforesaid Washington Times.

His identity, if anyone should ask about it, is established by his persistently pious devotion to his former master; and his memory is fully as long as his ears. He remembers all about Saint Martin and his doings when sainthood was in flower. He thinks that his long-lost master, Saint Martin, would be a good saint for America to adopt for the following excellent reason:

Armistice Day is celebrated on November 11, and Saint Martin was buried on November 11. We might make it a double doin's if the decayed saint of blessed memory were given official standing and recognition as the patron of America.

And such conclusive logic is hard to escape. Its force is compelling. Besides, Martin was an exceptional saint even when saints were so numerous as to be common. He divined his cloak with a poor beggar to save the latter from freezing when ordinary saints might have given the beggar the whole cloak. He also recalled two persons to life long enough to be baptized who had died without that rite, whereas a less saintly saint might have let them live indefinitely.

"If America wants a patron saint, it might go further and fare worse than to select St. Martin, with November 11 as the date of celebration," says Brisbane—another pious observation worthy of its exalted source.

When it comes to tickling the papist imagination and sitting solid with the Sinn Fein, this recovered relic of Saint Martin can earn his high salary and dividends every day of the year. There are also others, but none so conspicuous as the collaborators and associates of the Hearsts and hooligans. For who can compete with that combination in the production of general asininity and Sinn Fein slush!

De Valera, the pope's president, begins each of his harangues in the Gaelic tongue to show, as he says that Ireland is a separate race with a distinct language. We presume that the pope's priests begin their incantations in Latin for the same purpose—to show that the pope's subjects are separate, distinct, and un-American.

The Easter Rebellion

At Easter, 1916, when England was in the throes of the great war, a gang of traitors in German pay started a rebellion in Dublin. Their plan was to tie England's hands in Ireland and occupy the British fleet so as to give the Germans a chance to invade England.

An attack on the English coast was planned for the same day as the rising in Ireland, and a shipload of arms was sent from Germany to Ireland to help the rebels.

Roger Casement was brought over in a German submarine to lead the rebels, but the British fleet was ready. The ship with arms was sunk, Casement was caught and hanged and the rebellion was a failure.

The rebels murdered 17 unarmed policemen and shot over 400 British soldiers, before they were put down.

Altogether over 1,000 persons were killed or wounded and the finest street in Dublin was burned to the ground.

Only fifteen of the rebels were executed for these crimes, yet the Irish Nationalists complain of the brutality of the British government in punishing traitors.

The Jesuits have been expelled repeatedly from nearly every nation, but are smooth enough to get back through religious pretense. Without that pretense they would not be endured anywhere.

The time has come when it is necessary for every citizen to choose between Romanism and Americanism. To know what each and both of them mean is to know that they are as opposite and as far apart as the poles.

READ the letters shown on this page and let them tell you how Reefe's "More Eggs" Tonic makes layers out of loafers, doubles the egg yield—yes, trebles the egg yield and sometimes quadruples the egg yield. How it makes champion layers out of the average backyard, barn-yard, hens and puts lots of money in your pocket. I have picked the letters written to me from nearby states. Perhaps you'll find a letter from your next door neighbor among them. Read, let them tell their own story.

This winter eggs will probably go to $1.00 a dozen. Last winter I predicted that eggs would go to $1.10 a dozen and in New York and Philadelphia they went to $1.25 a dozen. The demand for eggs is greater today than it was a year ago this time as proven by market quotations, and unless egg laying is speeded up, there won't be eggs to be had anywhere for less than $1.00 a dozen. This means big profits for poultry raisers. Now is the time to get all the eggs you can to sell at high prices.
